

TOWNLEY, LEMKE NOT INDICTED

ASK RAILROADS TO WITHDRAW LIGNITE RATE

Coal Operators of North Dakota, in Meeting Here, Take Steps to Fight Increase

CITES ITS ILL EFFECTS

Special Committee Named to Work With Executive Officers to Combat Increase

Lignite coal operators of North Dakota, assembled in meeting in Bismarck last night at the call of their state association, planned an aggressive campaign, to begin at once, against the proposed increase in lignite coal freight rates asked for by the railroads serving this state. Operators present, representing approximately 90 percent of the state's output of coal, pledged full moral and financial co-operation to their association in the fight in which the association has already been promised the support of all railroads and state railroads commissions in North and South Dakota, and many civic organizations throughout the lignite consuming area. In resolutions passed the operators called upon the railroads to withdraw their proposed tariff, which has been suspended for 120 days by the state-railroad commission and by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and pleaded for the co-operation of the people in the lignite area for their support. The operators appointed a special committee to work with the executive officers of the association in combating the proposed rate increase, it being the intention of the operators to immediately engage expert counsel to prepare their case for the hearings to be held sometime during the period of suspension.

Resolutions Adopted

The resolutions adopted follow: "Resolved that the North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators' association, having become aware of a menace to the welfare of each individual citizen of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota, in the shape of a proposed tariff on lignite coal increasing the freight rates thereon 40 to 60 percent, as proposed by the principal railroads serving these states, and further being aware that such increased rates would inevitably destroy the hard-earned development of the lignite industry, and further being aware that the removal of competition from lignite would leave the public of the Northwest at the mercy of eastern coal merchants, does hereby call upon the people of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota to act vigorously and promptly, protesting to the railroads and to the Interstate Commerce Commission against this effort by the railroads to further burden the Northwest in its time of dire need.

"Resolved, that the North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators' association, recognizing that if the proposed lignite tariff, increasing freight rates 40 to 60 percent, should become effective, most of the mines in North Dakota would be obliged to discontinue operations, and that much just compensation would arise from the people of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota against the railroads because of this removal of their only source of cheap fuel and of the only functioning industry within the state of North Dakota and of a rapidly developing industrial asset which furnishes purchasing power and which can attract manufacturing industries to this state, does hereby call upon the railroads serving and served by the state of North Dakota, to withdraw the proposed tariff both in view of its injustice and of the inevitable result, the keener ill-will of the people who would suffer most severely."

It is the announced intention of the executive committee to meet with state officials of North and South Dakota in the near future and plan complete co-ordination of the various elements affected by the proposed rate increases. Assurances of support from South Dakota were brought to the meeting by E. O. Roush of Haynes, member of the South Dakota coal commission.

Operators Present

Operators present at the meeting included: N. D. Nichols, Medora; E. O. Roush, South Dakota Coal Mining Commission, Haystack; E. F. Stevens, Garrison; F. F. Denters, Dickinson; B. A. Pratt, Minneapolis; W. P. Macomber, Jefferson Steiner, Washburn Lignite Coal Co.; Elmer Trux, Trux Coal Co.; J. A. Kunkel, Garrison; H. O. Stevens, Garrison; E. A. Whittier, Whitener-Crocker Co., Columbus; Tom Eglinton, Lakota; C. G. House, Glen Ullin Coal Co.; J. J. Miller, Secretary of operators' association; J. P. Mellon, state Mine inspector.

GORED TO DEATH

Milnor, N. D., Nov. 15.—Nels Anderson, 67, farmer of near here, died four hours after being gored by an enraged bull which he tried to drive away from the farm of Mrs. Krute Borden, his sister, with whom he lived. All his ribs on one side were broken and was badly mangled.

VISIT WILSON

CROWDED AUDITORIUM EXPECTED WHEN RICCARDO MARTIN COMES

Bismarck Favored by Circumstances in Obtaining Famous Tenor of Metropolitan Opera Company, Called the Greatest Since Enrico Caruso by Many Critics.

From all sides come expressions of appreciation for the opportunity Bismarck is giving the people to hear Riccardo Martin, tenor who has appeared in Covent Garden, London, with the Metropolitan Opera company, and Chicago, Opera Association, who appears in a concert here commencing at the teachers' Nov. 23, during the North Dakota Teachers convention, and Nov. 24 for residents. This is not a money making proposition on the part of the Association of Commerce. They are planning to honor the visiting teachers with a high class attraction and to give the townspeople a chance to enjoy a famous opera singer at the lowest possible cost. No profit is expected. The Association of Commerce members expect to pack the house the second night when Bismarck is expected to go. Seats will be sold at the popular price of $1.50 while in Minneapolis or Chicago it would cost from $3 to $5 to hear the same singer.

F. L. Konkin has been made chairman of the committee which will have charge of the ticket sale for the night of Nov. 24. They expect to put the drive over in a very short time, since the population will have practically only one chance of hearing the great tenor whom critics at home and abroad appear to be unanimous in affirming as the successor of the great Caruso.

The price of seats has been made popular because it is expected that all of Bismarck will wish to attend. No Profit Expected. No profit is expected or intended by the Association of Commerce. They only wish to break even. Every body is expected to cooperate and help put the affair over in fine style. The entertainment is so fine and Bismarck is so close to the opera that it is expected to be a grand opera star who seldom appears in a city of this size that the association members have decided to allow the sale of a few tickets to Bismarck for the Nov. 23 entertainment in order to be sure of accommodations for all who will undoubtedly be glad to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing a singer so famous as Riccardo Martin.

Bismarckers who have heard Mr. Martin are unanimous in their praises of him as an entertainer while work has been done from many who know him by reputation of the inspiration one will obtain from hearing him. Comments follow: Miss Vera Hathaway—"I heard Riccardo Martin in Huron, S. D. when he appeared before the teachers. I enjoyed the program he gave at that time and thought his personality and stage presence particularly pleasing."

Glad to Hear Him

Col. C. B. Little—"While I have never had the opportunity of hearing Riccardo Martin sing, I shall indeed be glad to avail myself of the chance of hearing him when he comes to Bismarck. Many of my friends here have heard him and have told me to make special effort to hear the wonderful tenor who has such a wonderful tenor voice that he is called 'Caruso's successor.' I anticipate a real treat."

Madame Hermann Scheffer—"I heard Riccardo Martin, the great tenor, sing in opera-LaBoheme in Chicago about four years ago. He was wonderful then. If his improvement in the meantime is such as critics all over the country claim I do not wonder that he is taking over his former teacher, Caruso's laurels. He has a sure intonation, a wide (Continued on Page 3)

WHEAT TARIFF RISE PROBE IS PUT UNDER WAY

Machinery of the Tariff Commission Is Made Ready For Many Hearings

CAN BOOST IT 50 PCT.

Sidney Anderson, President of Wheat Council, Asks Commission to Take Action

Washington, Nov. 15.—The tariff commission's wheat tariff inquiry will include a study of the import duties on all wheat products as well as the commodity itself, it was disclosed today in a formal statement by the commission. The statement said that the investigation could be expected to bring no results sooner than 60 days, with indication of a longer time being required.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The tariff commission put its machinery into motion today to carry forward its investigation to determine whether present conditions call for an increase in the import duty on wheat.

Preparations for the assembling of information by a committee of agricultural experts of the commission and of the department of agriculture to show whether the present tariff of 30 cents a bushel gives adequate protection to American producers was the first step in the investigation. All interests concerned in the inquiry will be given an opportunity to present their views at a preliminary hearing Nov. 26.

While it was the principal object of the hearing to expedite final action as much as possible commission members asserted that it probably would not be possible to complete the task and formulate recommendations to the President in less than three months. The investigation was ordered under the flexible provisions of the tariff act under which the President may order an increase to a maximum of 50 percent in the tariff. It results from an appeal of Sidney Anderson, president of the Wheat Council of the United States, that the maximum provisions be enforced.

GASOLINE CUT IS HEAVIER IN NO. DAKOTA

Price Now Based on Actual Shipping Point, Standard Oil Officials Say

North Dakota's recent cut in gasoline prices made by the Standard Oil Company varied from 1-2 to 3 1-2 cents a gallon by that company, according to Standard Oil officials. The variation is due, it is stated by E. J. Beckard of Chicago, attorney for the company, because the Standard put into effect a price based upon the actual freight charges from the refinery shipping point.

Governor Nestos, last summer, in a statement asserted that the Standard Oil Company based its price for North Dakota upon Superior, Wisconsin, as a shipping point when in fact the gasoline was not now shipped to North Dakota from there. Most of it comes from Casper, Wyoming. The Standard Company promised to put into effect as soon as a normal conditions obtained a price based upon the actual shipping point. The result is, according to officials, that the average reduction in price of gasoline per gallon is considerably greater in North Dakota than in other states of the Northwest.

The cut last week was smallest in Grand Forks where it was 0.4 cents per gallon and largest in Gola where it was 3.6 cents, according to Standard officials. The cut in price per gallon at some other places follows: Fargo .08, Beach 3.2, Bismarck 3.2, Williston 2.3, Minot 1.6, Hettinger 2.6, Hebron 1.5, Jamestown 1.5, Mandan 1.9, Devils Lake 1.9, Rhame 3.00. On the basis of the Standard Oil sales of 27,000,000 gallons of gasoline each year in the state the reduction is figured by officials as amounting to $455,000 annually.

PHYSICIAN IS FLOGGED

Harrisburg, Ill., Nov. 15.—Dr. S. S. Smith, physician of Raleigh, six miles north of here, was flogged by several masked men last night. Dr. Smith was stepping out of a barber shop adjoining his office when he was seized by the men, each of whom wore a black mask. He was taken a short distance from town and whipped.

LONDON HEARS GERMANS WILL FLOUT TREATY

Stresemann Government Definitely Determines to Let Rhineland Shift

FRANCE IS ASSAILED

Reported Germans Will Repudiate Treaty on Ground Allies Violated It

Berlin, Nov. 15 (By the A. P.)—Official quarters here dismiss as wholly unfounded the report circulated abroad that the German government has decided to repudiate the treaty of Versailles in its entirety.

(By the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Nov. 15.—Opponents of the Stresemann ministry are making political capital of the change in the change in the government policy toward the Ruhr and the Rhineland and it seems certain that they will bring the issue before the Reichstag when that body convenes next Tuesday. The government's decision to let the territories shift for themselves at least while they are occupied was made known in official quarters last night when it was announced that after November 25 the Reich would be unable to meet unemployment bills in the Ruhr and the Rhineland.

In the event political pressure does not force a change in the policy of the government it is believed the local authorities in the occupied regions will be empowered to deal with the French and Belgian regimes thus making the future of the areas dependent upon such agreement as may be effected in local negotiations. This, it is pointed out, will place a preponderance share of the responsibility for the people's fate on the shoulders of France and Belgium.

A dispatch received in London last night by the Central News Agency in Berlin reported a semi-official announcement that Germany had completely stopped all reparations payment on the ground that France had violated the Versailles treaty and therefore Germany could not.

The London Daily Mail carried a dispatch saying that Germany had decided to repudiate the treaty and disregard it as long as the Ruhr is occupied. There has been no direct confirmation of these charges.

LEGION NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Lively Balloting Marks Annual Election of Post

Lively balloting marked the annual election of officers of Lloyd Spets Post, American Legion, here last night. Three candidates were nominated by ballot for each office, and in the case of commander and some other officers it was necessary to take several ballots to get a majority vote. There were no active candidates for any office, the members proposing the names through the secret ballot. Officers elected for the ensuing year are: Commander—Phillip Webb, Vee-commander—Spencer Boise, Adjutant—L. P. Warren (re-elected). Finance officer—John Musolf (re-elected). Chaplain—Rev. Joseph Eyrson, Historian—Angela Holta. Members executive committee—G. H. Russ, Jr., Dr. W. E. Cole. There was a good attendance. Felix Cordner, retiring commander, will turn over the gavel to his successor at the next meeting, and report upon the activities of the past year.

FINDS BOMB IN HIS AUTO

Chicago, Nov. 15.—About to start his automobile, Edward Dewey, remembering that one of his spark plugs had been causing trouble, raised the hood of the car and found a 14-inch iron pipe filled with gunpowder adjusted so that it would explode when the engine started, he told police. Dewey was unable to explain why the bomb was placed there.

McADOO SUPPORTERS READY FOR CAMPAIGN TO NOMINATE HIM

Former Campaign Manager For James M. Cox Announces His Support of McAdoo For The Democratic Presidential Nomination—Confers With Him

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Supporters of William G. McAdoo intended to nominate and elect him for the presidency. David Rockwell of Ravenna, Ohio, pre-convention leader of the M. Cox campaign in 1920 declared in a statement today. Mr. Rockwell, who is managing a campaign for McAdoo's friends to secure for the former secretary of the treasury the Democratic national nomination, said "the whole country is calling aloud for leadership" and that "Mr. McAdoo is the one great figure now available in our party."

During his visit to Chicago this week Mr. McAdoo is understood to have conferred with Mr. Rockwell. Mr. Rockwell commented cautiously on Mr. McAdoo's own attitude saying the latter had indicated he would consider carefully every phase of the situation and determine for himself if his services really are desired by his party and the country.

"Standing firmly for legitimate business and for the protection of the farm industry, Mr. McAdoo stands equally firm for the rights of labor and the public," said Mr. Rockwell. "He believes in adequate wages and fair hours and believes that they pay. He is not afraid to be known as the friend of the people."

"STATEMENT IS ACCURATE"

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 15.—Commenting on a statement made in Chicago today by David L. Rockwell that friends of William G. McAdoo intend to nominate him as a Democratic candidate for the Presidency, Mr. McAdoo said here today that "Mr. Rockwell has stated the situation accurately."

BLACK DUCK PRESENTED TO SOCIETY

A black duck, sometimes called a black mallard, and extremely rare in North Dakota, was shot near Dawson by Frank Reed of that place while hunting with F. W. Murphy of this city. The duck, a male, was presented to the State Historical Society, which is collecting specimens of native birds. Recently Curator L. F. Crawford received from A. J. Brown of Cooperstown, a female black duck. The black duck, Mr. Crawford said, is plentiful on the east coast but is seldom seen in North Dakota. The one shot by Mr. Reed is said to be the first shot in the vicinity of Dawson in several years.

Mr. Crawford now has 15 stuffed ducks for exhibition in the museum.

SPUD GROWERS ARE TO HAVE ORGANIZATION

Will be Thoroughly Organized For Selling By Next Fall, Is Statement

Fargo, Nov. 15.—The North Dakota potato growers will have a completely organized, competently organized and fully equipped potato marketing organization in time to handle the next year's crop, according to a statement issued from the general headquarters of the state organization today.

"While all acceptances to serve on the general organization committee have not been received," the statement said, "the lineup so far is impressive."

George Hoople of Hoople, N. D., has been selected as chairman; H. Finke of Berthold, vice-chairman; George Wolf, Colfax, secretary, and E. J. Weiser, Fargo, treasurer.

LEAGUE PAPER PROBLEM UP

State Executive Committee Here to "Sit In" on Balloting

Members of the state executive committee of the Nonpartisan League are here today to "sit in" on the election of directors of the proposed official Nonpartisan League weekly newspaper and the selection of the managing editor. Chairman W. J. Church of York said he expected at least a majority of the committee here before the day is over, the committee being called because it was directed by the last convention to take charge of the newspaper.

Mrs. Minnie Craig of Edmond had received a large number of ballots from subscribers to stock in the newspaper for directors and for a managing editor. A meeting was to be held late today.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH FORGERY SHOTS FATHER AND MOTHER

Shenandoah, Ia., Nov. 15.—A warrant charging Claude Carmichael, 21, who shot and seriously wounded his father and slightly wounded his mother when she attempted to intervene on behalf of her husband, who accused him of forgery, was sworn out late yesterday by J. F. Schick, a banker of Coin, Iowa. Young Carmichael, according to the county attorney, confessed to the shooting. According to the warrant young Carmichael forged a $500 check. The boy is also said to have forged a note for $1,500 which he gave for an automobile and also a check for $150.

Carmichael is being held in the jail at Clarinda. His bride of a year is prostrated. The boy's father is in a critical condition here from the bullet which penetrated his chest. His mother, also bearing the marks of a bullet, is at the bedside of her husband. No charges except those of forgery have been preferred against young Carmichael.

Refused to Appear Before Body Investigating the Scandinavian-American Bank

25 INDICTMENTS DRAWN

Others Are Indicted But Report Has Not Been Handed Down, It Is Understood

Fargo, Nov. 15.—A. C. Townley, organizer and first president of the Nonpartisan League; William Lemke, his chief associate in the conduct of the league's legislative affairs, and H. A. Paddock, former secretary of the Industrial Commission, will not be prosecuted in connection with the failure of the Scandinavian-American Bank, it became known today according to the Fargo Forum. Attorneys in charge of the of the investigation by the Cass county grand jury said that no witness had been obtained to connect those men with the alleged crime involved. It was understood that the grand jury would report some 25 indictments late today, although no official announcement was made, representative of the Forum stated.

At the same time it became known that Arthur LeSueur, an attorney prominent in league circles for several years and J. W. Brinton, sometimes "henchman of Townley" and Lemke, refused to appear as witnesses before the grand jury. Both men now reside out of the state, and they could not be compelled to come here and testify. Both were notified several times.

It was their evidence, it was said, that resulted in the indictment against Townley, Lemke and Paddock when the grand jury investigated the wrecking of the bank in May, 1922. At that time Townley was indicted on a charge of embezzlement, and Paddock on the same bill being T. W. Gilroy, L. G. McAdams, William Lemke, N. G. Eggen and E. J. Ham.

RIVER WORK CONTRACTS LET

Several Burleigh County Men Are Awarded Government Work

Six separate contracts will be awarded by the United States Engineers, War Department, for furnishing material for the big rip-rap job on the west bank of the Missouri river just above Mandan, according to information here.

The successful bidders are furnishing 4,000 yards of rock, H. A. Thomas of Driscoll; 5,000 yards of rock, William Joseph of Wing. 1,000 cords of brush, H. A. Thomas; 1,200 cords of brush, Martin Bourgeois; 500 cords of brush, Anthony Bernotas, Bismarck.

Work is now in progress in "shoring" the banks and making ready for the placing of materials.

FARMER KING IN GERMANY

Letter Received Here Tells of Difficulties of Food Purchase

The farmer is king in Germany today, according to information contained in a letter to William Laist of this city from his sister, Mrs. Leopold Guggenbuehler, of Schweitzingen, Baden, Germany. There was a big crop in Germany this year, but the farmers dislike to sell their food stuffs for paper marks, she said. The mark has depreciated so fast and its value has sunk so low that they prefer to hold on to their food stuffs, which at the rate the mark is dropping may be much more valuable a few weeks or months hence.

However, if American money is in the possession of a German he may easily get food stuffs from the farmers, she said. Mr. Laist sent his sister $100 R.M. as the equivalent in October of $50 U.S. dollars. The letter, which Mr. Laist received today, was 45 m. and worth of stamps. Prices of some products in Baden were given in the letter as follows: Meat, 12 billion marks a pound; three pounds of butter, 30 billion; quart of milk, four billion; a billion; sugar, five and four tenths billion; flour, three billion a pound; one egg, three billion; potatoes, 100 billion; 40' cabbage; hard, 10 to 20 billion.

In the event political pressure does not force a change in the policy of the government it is believed the local authorities in the occupied regions will be empowered to deal with the French and Belgian regimes thus making the future of the areas dependent upon such agreement as may be effected in local negotiations. This, it is pointed out, will place a preponderant share of the responsibility for the people's fate on the shoulders of France and Belgium.

A dispatch received in London last night by the Central News Agency in Berlin reported a semi-official announcement that Germany had completely stopped all reparations payments on the ground that France had violated the Versailles treaty and therefore Germany could not.

The London Daily Mail carried a dispatch saying that Germany had decided to repudiate the treaty and disregard it as long as the Ruhr is occupied. There has been no direct confirmation of these advices.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDERWAY

Paris, Nov. 15.—Advices from French sources in Berlin say that the negotiations between representatives of the occupied territory and the Stresemann government concerning the future of the Rhineland are proceeding.

LEGION NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Lively Balloting Marks Annual Election of Post

Lively balloting marked the annual election of officers of Lloyd Spetz Post No. 3, American Legion, here last night. Three candidates were nominated by ballot for each office, and in the case of commander and some other officers it was necessary to take several ballots to get a majority vote. There were no active candidates for any office, the members proposing the names through the secret ballot.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are: Commander—Phillip Webb. Vice-commander—Spencer Boise. Adjutant—L. P. Warren (re-elected).

Finance officer—John Musolf (re-elected). Chaplain—Rev. Joseph Ryerson. Historian—Angela Holta.

Members executive committee—G. H. Russ, Jr., Dr. W. E. Cole. There was a good attendance. Fernis Cordner, retiring commander, will turn over the gavel to his successor at the next meeting, and report upon the activities of the past year.

FINDS BOMB IN HIS AUTO

Chicago, Nov. 15.—About to start his automobile, Edward Dewey, remembering that one of his spark plugs had been causing trouble, raised the hood of the car and found a 14-inch iron pipe filled with gunpowder adjoined so that it would explode when the engine started, he told police. Dewey was unable to explain why the bomb was placed there.

McADOO SUPPORTERS READY FOR CAMPAIGN TO NOMINATE HIM

Former Campaign Manager For James M. Cox Announces His Support of McAdoo For The Democratic Presidential Nomination—Confers With Him

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Supporters of William G. McAdoo intended to nominate and elect him for the presidency. David Rockwell of Ravenna, Ohio, pre-convention leader of the J. M. Cox campaign in 1920 declared in a statement today.

Mr. Rockwell, who is managing a campaign for McAdoo's friends to secure for the former secretary of the treasury the Democratic national nomination, said "the whole country is calling aloud for leadership" and that "Mr. McAdoo is the one great figure now available in our party."

During his visit to Chicago this week Mr. McAdoo is understood to have conferred with Mr. Rockwell. Mr. Rockwell commented cautiously on Mr. McAdoo's own attitude saying the latter had indicated he would consider carefully every phase of the situation and determine for himself if his services really are desired by his party and the country.

"Standing firmly for legitimate business and for the protection of the farm industry, Mr. McAdoo stands equally firm for the rights of labor and the public," said Mr. Rockwell. "He believes in adequate wages and fair hours and believes that they pay. He is not afraid to be known as the friend of the people."

"STATEMENT IS ACCURATE."

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 15.—Commenting on a statement made in Chicago today by David L. Rockwell that friends of William G. McAdoo intend to nominate him as a Democratic candidate for the Presidency, Mr. McAdoo said here today that "Mr. Rockwell has stated the situation accurately."

Mr. Crawford now has 15 stuffed ducks for exhibition in the museum.

SPUD GROWERS ARE TO HAVE ORGANIZATION

Will be Thoroughly Organized For Selling By Next Fall, Is Statement

Fargo, Nov. 15.—The North Dakota potato growers will have a completely organized, competently organized and fully equipped potato marketing organization in time to handle the next year's crop, according to a statement issued from the general headquarters of the state organization today.

"While all acceptances to serve on the general organization committee have not been received," the statement said, "the lineup so far is impressive."

George Hoople of Hoople, N. D., has been selected as chairman; H. Finke of Berthold, vice-chairman; George Wolf, Colfax, secretary, and E. J. Weiser, Fargo, treasurer.

LEAGUE PAPER PROBLEM UP

State Executive Committee Here to "Sit In" on Balloting

Members of the state executive committee of the Nonpartisan League are here today to "sit in" on the election of directors of the proposed official Nonpartisan League weekly newspaper and the selection of the managing editor. Chairman W. J. Church of York said he expected at least a majority of the committee being called because it was directed by the last convention to take charge of the newspaper.

Mrs. Minnie Craig of Esmond had received a large number of ballots from subscribers to stock in the newspaper for directors and for a managing editor. A meeting was to be held late today.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH FORGERY SHOOT'S FATHER AND MOTHER

Shenandoah, Ia., Nov. 15.—A war-rage charging Claude Carmichael, 21, who shot and seriously wounded his father and slightly wounded his mother when she attempted to intervene on behalf of her husband, who accused him of forgery was sworn out late yesterday by J. F. Schick, a banker of Coin, Iowa.

Young Carmichael, according to the county attorney, confessed to the shooting. According to the warrant young Carmichael forged a $600 check. The boy is also said to have forged a note for $1,500 which he gave for an automobile and also a check for $150.

Carmichael is being held in the jail at Clarinda. His bride of a year is prostrated.

The boy's father is in a critical condition here from the bullet which penetrated his chest. His mother, also bearing the marks of a bullet, is at the bedside of her husband. No charges except those of forgery have been preferred against young Carmichael.

Refused to Appear Before Body Investigating the Scandinavian-American Bank

25 INDICTMENTS DRAWN Others Are Indicted But Report Has Not Been Handed Down, It Is Understood

Fargo, Nov. 15.—A. C. Townley, organizer and first president of the Nonpartisan League; William Lemke, his chief associate in the conduct of the league's legislative affairs, and H. A. Paddock, former secretary of the Industrial Commission, will not be prosecuted in connection with the failure of the Scandinavian-American Bank, it became known today according to the Fargo Forum.

Attorneys in charge of the investigation by the Cass county grand jury said that no witness had been obtained to connect those men with the alleged crime involved.

It was understood that the grand jury would report some 25 indictments late today, although no official announcement was made, a representative of the forum stated.

At the same time it became known that Arthur LeSueur, an attorney prominent in league circles for several years and J. W. Brinton, sometimes henchman of Townley and Lemke, refused to appear as witnesses before the grand jury. Both men now reside out of the state and they could not be compelled to come here and testify. Both were notified several times.

It was their evidence, it was said, that resulted in the indictment against Townley, Lemke and Paddock when the grand jury investigated the wrecking of the bank in May, 1922. At that time Townley was indicted on a charge of embezzlement, co-defendants on the same bill being F. W. Cathro, L. P. McAnaney, William Lemke, N. G. Eggen and H. J. Hagen.

RIVER WORK CONTRACTS LET

Several Burleigh County Men Are Awarded Government Work

Six separate contracts will be awarded by the United States Engineers, War Department, for furnishing material for the big rip-rap job on the west bank of the Missouri river just above Mandan, according to information here.

The successful bidders are: furnishing 4,000 yards of rock, H. A. Thomas of Driscoll; 5,000 yards of rock, William Joseph of Wing.

1,000 cords of brush, H. A. Thomas; 1,200 cords of brush, Martin Bourne; 500 cords of brush, Anthony Bernotas, Bismarck.

3,000 poles, Scott Bros. Work is now in progress in "shaving" the banks and making ready for the placing of materials.

FARMER KING IN GERMANY

Letter Received Here Tells of Difficulties of Food Purchase

The farmer is king in Germany today, according to information contained in a letter to William Laist of this city from his sister, Mrs. Leopold Guggenbuehler, of Schweisingen, Baden, Germany.

There was a big crop in Germany this year, but the farmers dislike to sell their food stuffs for paper marks, she said. The mark has depreciated so fast and its value has sunk so low that they prefer to hold on to their food stuffs, which at the rate the mark is dropping may be much more valuable a few weeks or months hence.

However, if American money is in the possession of a German he may easily get food stuffs from the farmers, she said. Mr. Laist sent his sister $10. It was the equivalent, in October, of 650 billion marks. The letter which Mr. Laist received today bore 45 millions worth of stamps.

Prices of some products in Baden were given in the letter as follows: Meat, 15 billion marks a pound; three pounds of bread, 25 billion; one pound of butter, 30 billion; quart of milk, four shillings of a billion; sugar, five and four-tenths billion; flour, three billion a pound; one egg, three billion; potatoes, 100 pounds, 40 billion; lard, 15 to 20 billion.

RESPECT FOR LAW IS URGED ON ROTARIANS

Judge Birdzell of the Supreme Court Addresses Members of Organization

REFERS TO OBLIGATIONS

Respect for the law, proof that a democracy has learned the art of perpetuating itself and dangers that lurk in organized minorities, were given as outstanding matters for consideration during Armistice week by Judge L. E. Birdzell before the Rotarians at their regular weekly luncheon at the McKennis hotel.

Rotarians stood for a minute in silent tribute to the heroes who fell in battle that democracy might prevail. Judge Birdzell drew some timely lessons from the World War. Beside showing that individual liberty was one of the most sacred principles to be protected, he declared the war imposed fresh obligations upon Americans and many new problems as between nations and states and their national governments had come as an aftermath. Obedience to all laws whether of constitution or of statute he declared most important if democracy were to survive.

Appropriate songs were sung during the luncheon. Dr. V. J. LaRose of the November program committee presided.

Attendance was reported as being more than 91 percent strong. It is hoped at the next meeting to establish a record of 100 per cent when Gov. Nestor is the speaker of the day.

E. A. Phillips, vice-president of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company of St. Paul and a former president of the St. Paul Rotary club was a guest of honor. He told of conference plans of his club and promised cooperation with Bismarck in putting over the 1924 conference in a big way. Roy Baird of Dickinson and W. R. Thatcher of Mandan were other guests.

L. S. Craswell spoke of MacLeod's work among the boys especially the interest that had been developed in football. Fifty match games had been played and 151 boys have participated in the sport.

Burt Finney gave the birthday message for Dr. Harry Brantley, L. E. Thompson for Fred Caplain and Henry Murphy for George Will. Suitable gifts were presented in each instance.

FORBES AGAIN TAKES STAND

Former Director of Veterans Bureau Continues Testimony

Washington, Nov. 14.—Charles R. Forbes, who for four and one-half hours yesterday alternately struck back at his accusers and defended his official acts, was only half-way through the affairs of the Veterans Bureau with the assembling today of the senate investigating committee.

Forbes not only denied testimony of Brigadier Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, personal friend and physician to President Harding, that he had been dismissed for insubordination to the executive but attacked Dr.

DAIRY MOVES INTO NEW HOME

Bismarck Dairy Company Shows Fine Equipment at Its Opening Today

The Bismarck Dairy Company has moved into its new home, in the Hughes Block at 228 Broadway, holding their formal opening today when the place was crowded with visitors.

And with its removal into its new location, a building with a fine front of glass, a fine glass-enclosed showcase stocked with candy in the front part with a modern business office on one side, an entire new line of expensive machinery has been installed—machinery which now makes it possible to handle the milk from the time it comes to the dairy and is pumped into receiving cans, then into the filter, and runs over the automatic cooler until it is bottled and capped by an automatic bottler without ever coming into contact with human hands.

Sanitation is the keynote considered in selection of the many new machines and arrangements in the building which has the newest system of refrigeration and equipment.

Three pasteurizers run by separate motors, a new viscosizer or cream machine, a blurring machine replacing the clarifier to purify the milk are among the valuable machines installed. One of the most interesting processes used in the establishment is the tubular cooler which brings milk from 145 degrees in temperature to 45 degrees in less than a minute.

The automatic bottling machine shows for 300 gallons of milk to be bottled in an hour; 1,200 quarts, or 2,000 pints in the same length of time.

The automatic bottle washing machine installed is the only one of its kind between the Twin Cities and Bismarck, it is said. By means of this almost human machine, bottles are washed by the case, steam and water being forced up through small holes in the pipes along the tray-like shelf over which the cases pass and washed in a temperature of 135 degrees. Then they are drained, rinsed with steam and water at a temperature of 190 degrees and finally steamed again as a last purification measure before being lifted from the machine, placed in the cooler, and finally taken to the automatic bottler where they are automatically filled and sealed without coming into contact with the human hand until ready for delivery at the home of residents of the city.

A fine glass-enclosed showcase in the front office has been stocked with candies, and a modern business office is just off here.

J. P. Spies recently made a trip to the Twin Cities where he spent some time in studying the latest machinery used in the large dairies there before selecting equipment for the Bismarck Dairy Company.

ONE DAY TERM OF COURT HELD

Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 14.—Judge Will A. Cant held a one-day term of the United States court here yesterday.

More than 30 cases which have been on the calendar for years were dismissed. Joe Martin, charged with the murder of Susan DeFoe on the Red Lake Indian reservation, pleaded not guilty. Jacob S. Meyers of St. Cloud pleaded guilty.

ALLIES FAIL TO ACT UPON CROWN PRINCE

Council of Ambassadors Holds Meeting Without Discussing the Point

FRANCE IS ANXIOUS

Paris, Nov. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—The allied council of ambassadors failed to consider at its meeting today the question of what action should be taken in connection with the return of the former Crown Prince to Germany and as to Germany's attitude regarding the resumption of allied military control. The session was devoted to routine work and it is understood the ambassadors avoided mentioning these two questions because the allies were not in accord as to the proper course of action.

Great Britain, which took the initiative in the sending of a co-operative note to Germany regarding the return of Frederick William is now said to be desirous of dropping the whole matter while France, at first indifferent, but now favoring action of some sort, is ready for such action.

LIGNITE MEN MEET TONIGHT

Discuss Plans For Fighting Boost in Freight Rates

Members of the North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators Association are gathering in Bismarck tonight for the meeting tonight at which the operators of the state will formulate an aggressive campaign against the proposed new lignite freight tariff. The tariff, which was to become effective Dec. 8, has been suspended four months by the state railroad commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, pending hearings. The operators intend to have their interests properly protected at these hearings, it is announced. The meeting this evening will be held in Room 705, McKennis Hotel at 8 p. m.

James S. Miller of Minn. secretary of the operators association, arrived in Bismarck this morning from Minneapolis. He spoke on the lignite industry of North Dakota over WLAG last evening, making special reference to the proposed increase in freight rates sought by the roads, which he declared was a "high handed attempt to throttle one of North Dakota's most important industrial activities." He appealed to the people of North and South Dakota and Minnesota to join the operators in their fight against the new tariff.

CANNOT USE HUNTING DOG

Jury in Jamestown Finds Using Dog For Chickens Unlawful

Jamestown, Nov. 15.—In a test case brought to determine the kind of dogs which can be used in hunting under the provisions of the state game law, the jury in the case of the state vs. John Tanham of the Western Electric Company of Jamestown found the defendant guilty of using a spaniel for retrieving a wounded prairie chicken, claimed to be contrary to the law. The defense claimed that under the law bird dogs only are prohibited and that bird dogs consist only of pointers, setters or droppers. It was not claimed that the defendant was using a dog to hunt live birds. The verdict means that under the law no breed of dogs can be used in hunting chickens, either in retrieving wounded or dead dogs or otherwise. The state law permits use of dogs to retrieve water fowls, but it is the contention of the state game warden that no dog may be used in hunting chickens.

ture to support the tracks over the roadway but raising of the tracks for a considerable distance. The Northern Pacific is not expected to abandon the present substitute track on which the main line runs for the new grade before next spring, it being the usual practice to allow a new or raised grade to settle for some time before running heavy trains over it.

The paving work to be undertaken by Morton county and the city of Mandan also will not be done this fall, and the present rough road through the underpass probably will be used all winter.

State Engineer Black has asked the commissioners of Morton and Burleigh counties to take steps to keep the road open during the winter.

MARKET NEWS WHEAT STEADY IN TRADING

Tendency Upward Is Only Fairly Well Sustained

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Eastern buying together with the fact that offerings were light gave an upward trend to wheat today in the early dealings. Bulls put some stress on reports that Minneapolis prices were too low to permit of Canadian imports at word from Washington that wheat tariff hearings were likely to take several months to tend to nullify efforts to lift prices. The opening which ranged from 1-8 cent decline to 1-4 to 3-8 cents advance, December $1.08 1-2 to $1.08 7-8 and May $1.08 7-8 to $1.09 1-8 was followed by moderate general upturns.

Turn Late

Scattered operations between Winnipeg and Chicago, simultaneous selling in Chicago and buying in Winnipeg led to a sharp setback today in wheat prices. The break took place in the last half of the hour of trade session. Prices closed unsettled at one-half to 3/4 cents net decline, December $1.05 and May $1.08 to 1/4 cents.

Subsequently bears had the advantage and in connection with selling here on the part of spreaders it was asserted that the present domestic visible supply of wheat was the largest ever known in peace times.

range and artistic singing qualities. It is even throughout its expanse, under cultured control and has warmth as well as breadth. His tones are of excellent quality and unusual clarity. I am proud that Bismarck people are going to be given the chance of hearing such a magnificent singer.

Mrs. Frank Barnes—"Although I have not heard Ricardo Martin sing, many of my friends have, and all were unanimous in their praises of him. I have heard so much of his superior talent that I am delighted to think that I shall hear him right here at home."

Miss Emma Taubert—"Friends of mine who have heard Ricardo Martin sing assure me that I shall enjoy every minute of the time that I am listening to the great tenor."

Mrs. M. C. Schoellkopf—"I was just reading about what a wonderful tenor voice Ricardo Martin who is coming here this month has. Mention in the Musical magazines of him are very flattering. I am anxious to hear a man with a voice that is said to already equal that of Caruso in tone quality, volume, and flexibility."

A Lyrical Genius

Principal William Bublitz—"I heard Ricardo Martin quite early in his musical career, comparatively speaking. Even at that time he was looked upon as a lyrical genius. It is the brilliancy, the resonance of his tones that have made him famous. I heard musicians of note at the time of Mr. Martin's appearance when I heard him say that no tenor, not even the Great Caruso who was his teacher could equal him in this respect. With the years of training since I heard him, I consider him as America's greatest living tenor."

"You don't even have to be a musician to enjoy the lyric qualities of a voice like his. His perfect control makes his singing appear simple and beautiful—inspired of an abundance of volume with no meaning as some singers appear to me."

ELKS LODGE OPENS SEASON

Number of New Candidates Will Be Initiated

The Elks Lodge will hold its first big meeting of the fall and winter season on Friday night of this week, when there will be an initiation. A number of new candidates from this and other nearby cities are expected. The great deal of business of the lodge will be taken up at the business meeting, according to Alex Rosen, exalted ruler. Mr. Rosen recently attended a district conference called by Dr. R. A. Bolton in Jamestown. Several important questions will be placed before the membership. Refreshments will be served.

POULTRY SHOW DATES FIXED

Fargo, Nov. 15.—North Dakota's state poultry show will be held in the Fargo auditorium, Jan. 7 to 13, at the same time that the annual conference of North Dakota county agents is being held at the North Dakota Agricultural college, it was announced today.

Selection of these dates marks an innovation in the time for holding the state poultry show. It will be the first time in years that the show has not been held during the week of the Tri-State Grain Growers convention, which is to be held the following week.

CANNOT USE HUNTING DOG

Jury in Jamestown Finds Using Dog For Chickens Unlawful

Jamestown, Nov. 15.—In a test case brought to determine the kind of dogs which can be used in hunting under the provisions of the state game law, the jury in the case of the state vs. John Tanham of the Western Electric Company of Jamestown found the defendant guilty of using a spaniel for retrieving a wounded prairie chicken, claimed to be contrary to the law. The defense claimed that under the law bird dogs only are prohibited and that bird dogs consist only of pointers, setters or droppers. It was not claimed that the defendant was using a dog to hunt live birds. The verdict means that under the law no breed of dogs can be used in hunting chickens, either in retrieving wounded or dead dogs or otherwise. The state law permits use of dogs to retrieve water fowls, but it is the contention of the state game warden that no dog may be used in hunting chickens.

The Northern Pacific is not expected to abandon the present substitute track on which the main line runs for the new grade before next spring, it being the usual practice to allow a new or raised grade to settle for some time before running heavy trains over it.

The paving work to be undertaken by Morton county and the city of Mandan also will not be done this fall, and the present rough road through the underpass probably will be used all winter.

State Engineer Black has asked the commissioners of Morton and Burleigh counties to take steps to keep the road open during the winter.

MARKET NEWS WHEAT STEADY IN TRADING

Tendency Upward Is Only Fairly Well Sustained

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Eastern buying together with the fact that offerings were light gave an upward trend to wheat today in the early dealings. Bulls put some stress on reports that Minneapolis prices were too low to permit of Canadian imports at Minneapolis. On the other hand word from Washington that wheat tariff hearings were likely to take several months tended to nullify efforts to lift prices. The opening which ranged from 1-8 cent decline to 1-4 to 3-8 cents advance, December $1.03 1-2 to $1.03 7-8 and May $1.08 7-8 to $1.09 1-8 was followed by moderate general upturns.

Spreading operations between Winnipeg and Chicago, simultaneous selling in Chicago and buying in Winnipeg led to a sharp setback today in wheat prices here. The break took place in the last half of the board of trade session. Prices closed unsettled at one-half to 3/4 cents net decline, December $1.05 and May $1.08 to 3/4 cents.

Subsequently bears had the advantage and in connection with selling here on the part of spreaders it was asserted that the present domestic visible supply of wheat was the largest ever known in peace times.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

CIVIC COOPERATION

Entertaining 1,000 to 1,200 teachers is no easy task and one that will tax the community spirit of Bismarck which has been so responsive in the past. The slogan "You Will Like Bismarck," is a fine civic sentiment, but it is up to every citizen to give the educators of this state such a welcome that they will go away pleased with the warmth of the reception and the kind of service that Bismarck is famous for.

First of all the hotels can care for only a limited number. They will be filled first with guests before the call comes for rooms in private homes. No person should feel reluctant about extending hospitality to these public servants. Teaching is one of the noblest of professions, underpaid and too often not appreciated. It is a life work that touches the home intimately and the families of Bismarck should welcome the opportunity to entertain one or more teachers for three or four days.

Appeals have gone forth for rooms. Response should be immediate. Such accommodations will be paid for at current hotel rates. Those who want to throw their homes open and make no charge to the teachers can do so, but to put the whole affair on a business basis every teacher expects to pay his or her way while in Bismarck.

But the convention is not to be commercialized in the least. Bismarck is glad to show its appreciation at being selected host to North Dakota's great staff of educators who toil long hours in developing future citizens of the Republic.

Two special attractions are being afforded the teachers by the city through the Association of Commerce. It is a service the city is glad to extend, but what is far more essential is that every citizen appoint himself a committee of one to see that each teacher will like Bismarck and profit from the trip.

Now let's snap into the arrangements and put the convention over big.

RICCARDO MARTIN

Bismarck is indeed fortunate in the attractions secured for the North Dakota Education Association convention. To hear such an artist as Martin at popular prices seldom comes to a city of this size and the Auditorium should be packed Saturday evening, November 24. The teachers of the state will be entertained Friday evening, November 23, at the complimentary concert tendered them through the Association of Commerce.

Martin is regarded by many of the leading critics as the greatest tenor since Caruso. His appearance in grand opera and upon the concert platform has endeared him to music lovers throughout the world. He is an international figure ranking with the greatest of the vocal artists.

This city has shown fine discrimination in the past in responding to first class attractions and the opportunity of hearing Martin is one that should pack every available seat in the Auditorium.

MAYBE IT'S SUCCESSFUL

Lord Curzon in his book goes Edgar Allan Poe one better in telling about an Amir of Afghanistan, said to have put to death by slow torture 120,000 of his own people. Another time he had 10,000 enemies blinded by quicklime, then turned loose in the wilderness. The star act was taking prisoners to a mountain top during zero weather, pouring water on them until they were encased in solid ice, up to their heads, then left to die.

While talking with a grain of salt the stories about this barbarian we can't help reflecting that maybe civilization is more of a success than we realize.

INTERESTED IN MYSTERY

Rafael Schermann, known to Vienna police as "the man with the X-ray eyes," visits America. He's said to have an uncanny ability to look at a bit of handwriting and be able to tell all about the writer and the circumstances under which it was written. He has helped the police solve many a baffling mystery.

In America, Schermann will demonstrate before scientists. He comes at the psychological moment. The nation is swept by a wave of intense interest in the psychic. These waves come roughly every 50 years, following big wars.

SCIENTISTS AIMS

Animal life first appeared on earth in the Gobi desert of China, according to scientific theory. That theory has been proved by the recent excavations, claims the archaeologist, R. C. Andrews. He believes that the diggers will unearth skeletons of prehistoric men which would make the Gobi desert the most probable cradle of the human race.

For every scientist who is investigating the ultimate destination of humanity, there are hundreds trying to discover where mankind started. They can't dig up the Hereafter with a shovel, and any outsider who tries is a fraud and humbug.

UNCONSCIOUS MIND

Will power—of the conscious mind—controls only a fourth of the activities of the body. The other three-fourths are directed by the unconscious mind, without us ever knowing it. This is Dr. William J. Mayo's theory.

For instance, digestion is a body activity controlled by the unconscious mind.

The so-called "unconscious mind" may be the Real Self. It is the part of us that dreams. It guides our emotions and much of our thinking. Every one has dual-personality.

FORGERS WORST FOE

The forger is the bank's worst foe, doing more damage than the hold-up man or safe blow—professionally known as "potemkin." Fifty million dollars was the total loss last year through forgery of signatures and alterations of checks, American Bankers' Association estimates.

One way to reduce this loss would be to use the forger's

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mister Bob Cat chased Paddy-foot Rabbit under the sycamore tree and lost him. Or rather Paddy-foot led his pursuer to the tree and disappeared. Then Hooty Owl hooted overhead and Mister Bob-Cat climbed up after him, but Hooty flew away just in time. Next Drummer Partridge called out a few trees ahead and Mister Bob Cat made a third attempt for his dinner.

Well, lo and behold, Drummer Partridge got away, too, flew right under Mister Bob Cat's nose and left him as hungry as Tom Tucker. "Goodness! I must be getting dumb!" spat the old fellow in disgust. "Oh, there's Paddy-foot Rabbit again. I'll get him this time!"

But Paddy-foot must have been looking hard, for he scampered off just as he had before, tearing straight for a gum tree, with Mister Bob Cat at his heels. But he shot down a hole just as he had before. Then Hooty Owl hooted overhead and up went Mister Bob Cat again. And when he got away for the second time, Drummer Partridge began, and so they led Mister Bob Cat on and on and on from one tree to another till he was miles away.

"Say!" he said, suddenly suspicious, "there's something queer about this. I can't catch a thing! Besides I'm as far away from home as Bo Peep's sheep. This is a strange tree, and that creek right underneath me, I never saw before. Ugh! It looks deep! I hate water! Wonder where those three are. I don't see them any more! This is the dead branch that Drummer Partridge was sitting on, but he's gone."

Suddenly there was a loud crack. The dead branch had dropped off with Mister Bob Cat on it and fallen splash into the water. "Oh! Oh! Oh!" he shrieked.

But his troubles were not over. Mister Otter reached up out of the water and ducked him. "Promise you'll let Paddy-foot Rabbit alone!" he said sternly. "He's a friend of mine."

"I promise!" gurgled Mister Bob Cat.

"And Hooty Owl!"

"Yes! Him, too, if you'll only let me go!"

"And Drummer Partridge!"

"Yes, sir!" nodded Mister Bob Cat weakly. "I'll promise anything if you'll only let me get out of this awful water."

The Twins saw him sneaking home in the moonlight. "Heel! Heel! Heel!" they heard three voices snigger.

"Bay, Nancy!" said Nick. "When people have wit like that, they don't need much help from the Fairy Queen, do they? The rabbit and the owl and the partridge planned the whole thing!"

The Tangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

Syd, old man, you certainly are in for it now. I don't know by what hocus-pocus Leslie has come to the conclusion that John Alden Prescott Jr. is your child. But the fact remains she thinks you are that baby's father.

Can you beat it? If what you think is true, and what I am beginning to believe more and more each day that the baby is mine and little Perier's, all I have to say is "greater love than this hath no man," that he take upon himself the parentage of his friend's child.

Honestly, Syd, I don't know what to do. I can't help this thing in any way. I tried to dissuade Leslie from it and she immediately closed her lips, but I could see by the expression in her eyes that she still held her theory.

What was it, old man, that you said that first night here that would give her that impression? She certainly got it from something you said yourself and the worst part of it all is I think she would rather almost anybody would be the father of that baby than you. Isn't that just like a woman?

She hasn't told me a word about that thousand dollars that you pinned inside the baby's coat and although I think this is very strange I don't dare ask her about it. Lord, Syd! I am in the devil of a fix. If I didn't love the little imp so much I think I should hate him. He keeps me all the time trying to skirt around things. The most innocent subjects of conversation become human documents which point toward you as a gay Lothario who has deceived some poor girl when, if the truth were known, you are innocent.

Of course I know that there was always more or less talk about Paula and myself, but you are the only person in all the world outside of us who really knows the facts. I want to see that picture, Syd, and yet I'm afraid to go with anyone. I'm afraid to go alone for fear someone will see me slinking in or out, and I am afraid to stay away.

As I said before, I'm in a devil of a fix.

Where a stipulation in a contract, for the purchase and sale of corporate stock, which agreement also appoints one of the parties as agent in a given territory to sell machinery, is that "This contract may be cancelled by either party upon 90 days written notice to the other, and it is further understood and agreed that in the event of the cancellation of this contract by either party to this contract within one year from this date, that the party of the first part agree to refund to the party of the second part the purchase price of the above shares subscribed to and paid for by the party of the second part within 90 days after the cancellation of this contract and upon surrender by the party of the second part of his stock certificate for the within number of shares," and when a negotiable promissory note is given for the purchase price of such stock, it is held that the payee may negotiate the note before maturity and that its obligation under the agreement, in the event of cancellation of the note is to repay the maker the face value of the note with interest up to the time when it is payable, and not necessarily to return the identical note.

DECISION OF SUPREME COURT

FROM CASS COUNTY
First National Bank of Buffalo, a corporation,
Plaintiff and Respondent, vs.
F. V. Wallace,
Defendant and Appellant.

SYLLABUS:

1. A promissory note has no legal or valid existence until it has been delivered in accordance with the intention of the parties and it is proper, in support of an allegation denying its execution, to show, as between the parties to it or others having notice, that the manual delivery of the note to the payee was refused thereof.

2. "Refund" means to give back; to restore; to repay.

3. Authority of the agent of the payee to transfer the note in suit by endorsement, held, for reasons stated in the opinion, to have been proved by competent evidence and the court properly admitted the note, with the endorsement, in evidence.

4. It is not error to sustain objections to cross-examination on the ground that the matters inquired into were not opened or touched on in the examination in chief.

5. Certain instructions examined and held, for reasons stated in the opinion, to correctly state the law.

Appeal from judgment of the District Court of Cass County, Hon. A. T. Cole, Judge.

Opinion of the Court by Johnson, J. AFFIRMED.

L. 1913, (51), is not met by a denial in the answer of the ownership of the note by the plaintiff. Neither is the presumption rebutted by an allegation in the answer that the plaintiff is not a holder in due course, and before maturity. Notwithstanding such allegations in the answer, plaintiff's prima facie case is established by proof of execution and the endorsement of the note, before maturity, to him. The presumption is not rebutted so as to put the plaintiff upon proof of his bona fides in acquiring the note, by allegations of equities in the answer; there must be both allegation and proof in support thereof.

THE FOOL

By Channing Pollock.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries Jerry Goodkind for his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermons. Gilchrist is sent to the coal mines by Goodkind senior and wires that a big strike is settled.

A delegation of strikers comes north to interview the president and directors. They are received in Jerry's home by first Stedman, then Hennig and Umanski. They do not meet with success.

Clare is angry because her dinner party is interrupted by Jerry's business meeting. Daniel calls to see Goodkind senior.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Don't mention it," he replied scornfully.

"I'm very grateful, but—" she spoke haltingly.

"But what?"

"Never mind, we'll talk about it some other time."

Jerry moved toward her indignantly.

"We'll talk about it now," he said with an air of finality.

"I'll go," put in Gilchrist, starting for the door.

"No you won't," said Jerry, turning on him. "You made a crack about my leaving 24 hours before you did. Now how do you know when I left?" He turned to his wife.

"If that's what you're sore about for heaven's sake drop it. I'm sorry you've been alone and I've sent you a handsome gift as an apology."

"I don't want it," Clare put the scarf back on the table. "I don't want to be paid for shutting my eyes to any insulting thing you choose to do."

"And I don't propose to be made a blackguard before strangers," said Jerry angrily.

"Dan isn't a stranger. And I don't want to make you a blackguard. Only—since you've insisted on the truth—Dan, when did my husband leave Black River?"

"I haven't seen him since Thursday," said Dan calmly. "As a matter of fact, I wasn't in Black River."

"Oh," broke in Jerry. "Where were you?"

"At the mines."

"Is that the truth?" asked Clare.

"Of course, it's the truth," said Jerry. "And if it wasn't I don't see that you have any right to ask questions. I haven't done anything that would make a bargain. I haven't done anything every man doesn't do."

"Every man—perhaps—but one," Clare said wistfully.

"My God. Now we've got it," exploded Jerry. "Gilchrist! If you'd only married him. He's good—because he says so. You should have been here a minute ago when the company detective warned us not to mention Gilchrist to Joe Hennig."

"You mean—" Daniel started, surprised.

"I mean Pearl Hennig," Jerry said sneeringly.

"Pearl Hennig?" Gilchrist was roused. "Why you—" He stopped and looked toward Clare. "You know that's not true."

"I know it's not true," put in Clare. "Oh, do you?" said Jerry doubtingly.

As he spoke there came sounds of voices from the doorway. There was anger in the tones.

"Now listen toward yourself," Stedman was saying.

"Behave—hell!" shouted Joe Hennig angrily.

Jerry turned to the door.

"Ask Stedman. Ask Hennig," he continued. "And before you make up your mind where I was yesterday, ask—where he was."

He flung the door open as Jerry spoke. Stedman turned nervously at his arm, but the stock workman advanced menacingly.

CHAPTER XII

The Unanswered Charge

Hennig jerked himself free of the restraining arm and strode straight for Gilchrist. Daniel turned to meet him, bewildered, but with that calm look of unafraid in his eyes. Jerry waited uncertainly and Clare looked on with tense interest.

"You—Gilchrist," stormed the irate intruder. "Where've you got my wife?"

"I haven't got your wife, Hennig," Gilchrist's answer was as dispassionate as the query was frenzied.

"The hell you haven't," shouted Hennig.

Gilchrist turned quickly to Clare. "You'd better go," he said.

Social and Personal

Plan Banquet For N. D. Alumni

Arrangements are being made for the entertainment of all University of North Dakota people at the coming State Teachers Convention which convenes in Bismarck on November 22nd.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
Pronounce it "rawn-tawn-tawn!" That is how Rintintin, the police dog and actor who appears in "Where the North Begins," should have his name pronounced, being as he is of French birth. He saw the light of day on the front battle lines, and the members of the 135th Aero Squadron named him Rintintin after the wails that had this name and were supposed to be charms against death. Rintintin has the part of the wolf-dog in "Where the North Begins," the Warner Brothers classic of the screen coming to the Eltinge for Friday and Saturday. It is a story of the north woods, with a strong plot.

CAPITOL
In "Long Live the King," the Metro picture which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Monday, Jackie Cogan's costuming problem was, different from all his previous pictures; instead of rags and tatters, he had twenty-four complete changes of wardrobe for this one role.

It seems to be a rule in Europe that the smaller the kingdom the more elaborate the uniforms, and Lavoria is a small principality "somewhere in the Balkans." Consequently, the uniforms worn by the Crown Prince, as an honorary member of various regiments, are of an exceedingly elaborate nature, combining all the gorgeous glitter of the numerous countries that surround the Balkans.

Jackie wears a cavalry uniform of blue and red and gold that snaps like the uniforms of Potsdam in their mildest days. He has a gilt sword—and it really cuts, too—carved and polished to a degree that would delight a West Point cadet on Commencement Day. His infantry uniforms number three; he has five different sailor suits, according to different ranks in the naval service; and so on, until the number of uniforms reaches the double dozen.

Asks Aid in Employment For Service Men

General Frank T. Hines, Director of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, has issued a call to all Posts of the American Legion to assist him in finding suitable employment for the rehabilitated ex-service men of this country.

"I know that the American Legion as an organization and Legionaires as individuals intend to continue their service," said Director Hines. "I feel, therefore, no hesitancy in suggesting a course of service which will be of the greatest possible benefit to our disabled comrades."

"We have approximately 71,000 men in vocational training. Within the next three months about 10,000 of these men will complete their courses and during the first three months of 1924 some 12,000 more will be graduated. These men have been vocationally rehabilitated. A job is the only thing they need to restore them as self-sustaining units of society."

"Our Legionnaires are in touch with employers; many of you are employers yourselves, many Legion posts have employment officers who are constantly looking up employment openings for veterans who need work. I would like to recommend to you these graduates from vocational training. From two to four years they have been making good and they will continue to make good. All they need is a chance. If you know of a job, any kind of a job, open now or that will be open within the next six months let us know, so we can give a rehabilitated veteran a chance at it."

"Just drop a line to the Veterans Bureau in Washington or, better yet, to the manager of the district where the employment opportunity exists, and our Employment Service will do the rest, and all of us will be grateful to you. Many large corporations are assisting in this work, and we as Legionnaires should bend every effort toward it also."

Surprise Him This Xmas

PERHAPS nothing worries the sensible girl at Christmas time as much as the question of what to give "him" at Christmas.

In the gift of her photograph this perplexing problem is solved in the most pleasing way, for no man will deny that to receive from her a gift of her photograph is the gift that he would most prize and enjoy.

We finish our portraits and mount them in a way that gives them a very artistic appearance, but it is necessary that you arrange early for your sitting if you are to have them for the Christmas holidays.

My Rosy Skin

How I clean it — how I preserve it

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My skin is the marvel of millions. Even softer and more rosy than 40 years ago. Yet mine is a grandmother's age.

Mine has been no easy life. I served lived in the limelight. I served France five years in the rigors of the war. Yet countless young girls envy my complexion. I can easily pass for 19.

France gave me the methods I employ. Now, in gratitude, I am supplying them to others. They multiplied my beauty, gave me perennial youth. Now I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

How I keep clean.
The first step to beauty is a clean skin. A skin that is clean to the depths. Lucie Lantelme, a famous Parisian beauty, taught me how to get it.

The method is a liquid cleanser. I call it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

You may think you clean your skin without it, but you don't. Apply Facial Youth to what you call a clean skin and see the extra dirt you get.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

CIVIC COOPERATION

Entertaining 1,000 to 1,200 teachers is no easy task and one that will tax the community spirit of Bismarck which has been so responsive in the past. The slogan "You Will Like Bismarck," is a fine civic sentiment, but it is up to every citizen to give the educators of this state such a welcome that they will go away pleased with the warmth of the reception and the kind of service that Bismarck is famous for. First of all the hotels can care for only a limited number. They will be filled first with guests before the call comes for rooms in private homes. No person should feel reluctant about extending hospitality to these public servants. Teaching is one of the noblest of professions, underpaid and too often not appreciated. It is a life work that touches the home intimately and the families of Bismarck should welcome the opportunity to entertain one or more teachers for three or four days.

Appeals have gone forth for rooms. Response should be immediate. Such accommodations will be paid for at current hotel rates. Those who want to throw their homes open and make no charge to the teachers can do so, but to put the whole affair on a business basis every teacher expects to pay his or her way while in Bismarck.

But the convention is not to be commercialized in the least. Bismarck is glad to show its appreciation at being selected host to North Dakota's great staff of educators who toil long hours in developing future citizens of the Republic.

Two special attractions are being afforded the teachers by the city through the Association of Commerce. It is a service the city is glad to extend, but what is far more essential is that every citizen appoint himself a committee of one to see that each teacher will like Bismarck and profit from the trip.

Now let's snap into the arrangements and put the convention over big.

RICCARDO MARTIN

Bismarck is indeed fortunate in the attractions secured for the North Dakota Education Association convention. To hear such an artist as Martin at popular prices seldom comes to a city of this size and the Auditorium should be packed Saturday evening, November 24. The teachers of the state will be entertained Friday evening, November 23, at the complimentary concert tendered them through the Association of Commerce.

Martin is regarded by many of the leading critics as the greatest tenor since Caruso. His appearance in grand opera and upon the concert platform has endeared him to music lovers throughout the world. He is an international figure ranking with the greatest of the vocal artists.

This city has shown fine discrimination in the past in responding to first class attractions and the opportunity of hearing Martin is one that should pack every available seat in the Auditorium.

MAYBE IT'S SUCCESSFUL

Lord Curzon in his book goes Edgar Allan Poe one better in telling about an Amir of Afghanistan, said to have put to death by slow torture 120,000 of his own people. Another time he had 10,000 enemies blinded by quicklime, then turned loose in the wilderness. The star act was taking prisoners to a mountain top during zero weather, pouring water on them until they were encased in solid ice, up to their heads, then left to die.

While talking with a grain of salt the stories about this barbarian we can't help reflecting that maybe civilization is more of a success than we realize.

INTERESTED IN MYSTERY

Rafael Schermann, known to Vienna police as "the man with the X-ray eyes," visits America. He's said to have an uncanny ability to look at a bit of handwriting and be able to tell all about the writer and the circumstances under which it was written. He has helped the police solve many a baffling mystery.

In America, Schermann will demonstrate before scientists. He comes at the psychological moment. The nation is swept by a wave of intense interest in the psychic. These waves come roughly every 50 years, following big wars.

SCIENTISTS AIMS

Animal life first appeared on earth in the Gobi desert of China, according to scientific theory. That theory has been proved by the recent excavations, claims the archaeologist, R. C. Andrews. He believes that the diggers will unearth skeletons of prehistoric men which would make the Gobi desert the most probable cradle of the human race.

For every scientist who is investigating the ultimate destination of humanity, there are hundreds trying to discover where mankind started. They can't dig up the Hereafter with a shovel and any outsider who tries is a fraud and humbug.

UNCONSCIOUS MIND

Will power — of the conscious mind — controls only a fourth of the activities of the body. The other three-fourths are directed by the unconscious mind without our ever knowing it. This is Dr. William J. Mayo's theory.

For instance digestion is a body activity controlled by the unconscious mind. The so-called "unconscious mind" may be the Real Self. It is the part of us that dreams. It guides our emotions and much of our thinking. Every one has dual personality.

FORGERS WORST FOE

The forger is the bank's worst foe, doing more damage than the hold-up man or safe blow — professionally known as "peterman." Fifty million dollars was the total loss last year through forgery of signatures and alterations of checks, American Bankers' Association estimates.

One way to reduce this loss would be to use fingerprints.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mister Bob Cat chased Paddy-foot Rabbit under the sycamore tree and lost him. Or rather Paddy-foot led his pursuer to the tree and disappeared. Then Hooty Owl hooted overhead and Mister Bob-Cat climbed up after him. But Hooty flew away just in time. Next Drummer Partridge called out a few trees ahead and Mister Bob-Cat made a third attempt for his dinner.

Well, lo and behold, Drummer Partridge got away, too, flew right under Mister Bob-Cat's nose and left him as hungry as Tom Tucker.

"Goodness! I must be getting dumb!" spat the old fellow in disgust. "Ob there's Paddy-foot Rabbit again! I'll get him this time!"

But Paddy-foot must have been looking hard, for he scampered off just as he had before, tearing straight for a gum tree, with Mister Bob Cat at his heels. But he shot down a hole just as he had before. Then Hooty Owl hooted overhead and up went Mister Bob Cat again.

And when he got away for the second time, Drummer Partridge began, and so they lost Mister Bob Cat on and on and on from one tree to another till he was miles away.

"Say!" he said, suddenly, suspicious, "there's something queer about this. I can't catch a thing! Besides I'm as far away from home as Bo Peep's sheep. This is a strange tree, and that creek right underneath me, I never saw before. What! It looks deep! I hate water! What were those three are. I don't see them any more! This is the dead branch that Drummer Partridge was sitting on, but he's gone!"

Suddenly there was a loud crack. The dead branch had dropped off with Mister Bob Cat on it and fallen splash into the water. "Oh! Oh! Oh!" he shrieked.

But his troubles were not over. Mister Otter reached up out of the water and ducked him. "Promise you'll let Paddy-foot Rabbit alone!" he said sternly. "He's a friend of mine."

"I p-p-promise!" gurgled Mister Bob Cat.

"And Hooty Owl!"

"Y-yes! Him, too, if you'll only let me go!"

"And Drummer Partridge!"

"Yes, yes, I'll promise anything if you'll only let me get out of this awful water!"

The two saw him sneaking home in the moonlight. Heel! Heel! Heel! they heard three voices snigger.

"Say, Nancy!" said Nick. "When people have wit like that, they don't need much help from the Fairy Queen, do they? The rabbit and the owl and the partridge planned the whole thing!"

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

Syd, old man, you certainly are in for it now. I don't know by what means-politely I don't care—but the conclusion that John Alden Prescott Jr. is your child. But the fact remains she thinks you are that baby's father.

Can you beat it? If what you think is true, and what I am beginning to believe more and more each day that the baby is mine and little Perler's, all I have to say is "greater love than this hath no man," that he take upon himself the parentage of his child.

Honestly, Syd, I don't know what to do. I can't help this thing in any way. I tried to dissuade Leslie from it and she immediately closed her lips, but I could see by the expression in her eyes that she still held to her theory.

What was it, old man, that you said that first night here that would give her that impression? She certainly got it from something you said yourself and the worst part of it all is I think she would rather almost anybody would be the father of that baby than you. Isn't that just like a woman?

She hasn't told me a word about that thousand dollars that you pinned inside the baby's coat and although I think this is very strange I don't dare ask her about it. Lord, Syd, I am in the devil of a fix. I don't love the little imp so much I think I should hate him. He keeps me all the time trying to skirt around things. The most innocent subjects of conversation become human documents which point toward you as a gay Lothario who has deceived some poor girl when, if the truth were known, you are innocent.

As far as the deceiving is concerned, even if the kid belongs to me, little Perler was never deceived. She is quite as much to blame for her advent into the world as am I and I think she would be the first to acknowledge that fact.

Have you heard from her lately? She's advertised at one of the moving picture houses next week in "Tramping His Heart." The town is quite "het-up" over it. Everybody remembers her and not a few of the men are digging me in the ribs as they pass me if I am going to give a theater party.

Off course I know that there was always more or less talk about Paula and myself, but you are the only person in all the world outside of us who really knows the facts. I want to see that picture, Syd, and yet I'm afraid to go with anyone. I'm afraid to go alone for fear someone will see me skinking in or out, and I am afraid to stay away.

As I said before, I'm in a devil of a fix.

DECISION OF SUPREME COURT FROM CASS COUNTY First National Bank of Buffalo, a corporation, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. F. V. Wallace, Defendant and Appellant.

Syllabus:
1. A promissory note has no legal or valid existence until it has been delivered in accordance with the intention of the parties and it is proper, in support of an allegation denying its execution, to show, as between the parties to it or others having notice, that the manual delivery of the note to the payee was upon a condition which was in fact never fulfilled or performed.

2. Where a stipulation in a contract, for the purchase and sale of corporate stock, which agreement also appoints one of the parties as agent in a given territory to sell machinery, is that "This contract may be cancelled by either party upon 90 days written notice to the other, and it is further understood and agreed that in the event of the cancellation of this contract by either party to this contract within one year from this date, that the party of the first part agrees to refund to the party of the second part the purchase price of the above shares subscribed to and paid for by the party of the second part within 90 days after the cancellation of this contract and upon surrender by the party of the second part of his stock certificate for the within number of shares," and when a negotiable promissory note is given for the purchase price of such stock, it is held that the payee may negotiate the note before maturity and then its obligation under the agreement, in the event of cancellation of the note to repay the maker the face value of the note with interest up to the time when it is payable, and not necessarily to return the identical note.

3. The presumption, declared by the statute, Sec. 6944, C. L. 1913, (59) that a holder of a note is a holder in due course, is not met by a denial in the answer of the ownership of the note by the plaintiff. Neither is the presumption rebutted by an allegation in the answer that the plaintiff is not a holder for value, in due course, and before maturity. Notwithstanding such allegations in the answer, plaintiff's prima facie case is established by proof of execution and the endorsement of the note, before maturity, to him. The presumption is not rebutted so as to put the plaintiff upon proof of his bona fides in acquiring the note, by allegations of equities in the answer, there must be, both allegation and proof in support thereof.

4. "Refrain" means to give back; to restore; to repay.

5. Authority of the agent of the payee to transfer the note in suit by endorsement, held, for reasons stated in the opinion, to have been proved by competent evidence and the court properly admitted the note, with the endorsement, in evidence.

6. It is not error to sustain objections to cross-examination on the ground that the matters inquired into were not opened or touched on in the examination in chief.

7. Certain instructions examined and held, for reasons stated in the opinion, to correctly state the law. Appeal from judgment of the District Court of Cass County, Hon. A. T. Cole, Judge.

Opinion of the Court by Johnson, J. AFFIRMED.

THE FOOL

By Channing Pollock

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries Jerry Goodkind for his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermons. Gilchrist senior and wires that a big strike is settled.

A delegation of strikers comes north to interview the president and directors. They are received in Jerry's home, first Goodman, then Hennig and Umanak. They do not meet with success.

Clare is angry because her dinner party is interrupted by Jerry's business meeting. Daniel calls to see Goodkind senior.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"You mention it," he replied scornfully.

"I'm very grateful, but—" she spoke haltingly.

"But what?"

"Never mind, we'll talk about it some other time."

Jerry moved toward her indignantly.

"We'll talk about it now," he said with an air of finality.

"I'll go," put in Gilchrist, starting for the door.

"No you won't," said Jerry, turning on him. "You don't crack about my leaving to hours before you did. Now how do you know when I left?" He turned to his wife.

"If that's what you're sore about for heaven's sake drop it. I'm sorry you've been alone and I've sent you a handsome gift as an apology."

"I don't want it," Clare put the scarf back on the table. "I don't want to be paid for shutting my eyes to any insulting thing you choose to do."

"And I don't propose to be made a blackguard before strangers," said Jerry angrily.

"Dan isn't a stranger. And I don't want to make you a blackguard. Only—since you've insisted on the truth—Dan, when did my husband leave Black River?"

"I haven't seen him since Thursday," said Dan calmly. "As a matter of fact, I wasn't in Black River."

"Oh—" broke in Jerry. "Where were you?"

"At the mines,"

"That's the truth?" asked Clare. "Of course, it's the truth," said Jerry. "And if it wasn't I don't see that you have any right to ask questions. I haven't done anything that wasn't in the bargain. I haven't done anything every man doesn't do."

"Every man—perhaps—but one," Clare said wistfully.

"My God. Now we've got it," exploded Jerry. "Gilchrist! If you'd only married him. He's good—because he says so. You should have been here a minute ago—when the company detective warned us not to mention Gilchrist to Joe Hennig."

"You mean," Daniel started, surprised.

"I mean Pearl Hennig," Jerry said sneeringly.

"Pearl Hennig?" Gilchrist was roused. "Why you—" He stopped and looked toward Clare.

"You know that's not true," said Clare. "I know it's not true," put in Jerry. "Oh, do you?" said Jerry doubtfully. As he spoke there came sounds of voices from the stairway. There was anger in the tones.

"Now listen—behave yourself," Stedman was saying.

"Behave—hell!" shouted Joe Hennig angrily.

"Jerry turned to the door.

"Ask Stedman. Ask Hennig," he continued. "And before you make up your mind, where I was yesterday, ask where he was."

Joe Hennig flung the door open as Jerry spoke. Stedman stepped nervously at his arm, but the stock workman advanced menacingly.

CHAPTER XII
The Unpleasant Charge

Hennig jerked himself free of the restraining arm and strode straight for Gilchrist. Daniel turned to meet him, bewildered, but with that calm look of unafraid in his eyes. Jerry waited uncertainly and Clare looked on with tense interest.

"You—Gilchrist," stormed the irate laborer. "Where've you got my wife?"

"I haven't got your wife, Hennig," Gilchrist's answer was as dispassionate as the query was frenzied.

"The hell you haven't," shouted Hennig.

Gilchrist turned quickly to Clare. "You'd better go," he said.

"Jerry was more sure of himself now.

"I want her to stay," he interceded firmly. "What's all this about, Stedman?"

FISH HATCHERY DAM FINISHED AT JAMESTOWN

Plan to Stock Spiritwood Lake With Fish, and Supply Other State Lakes

Jamestown, Nov. 15.—The new dam for impounding pure running spring water for the state Fish Hatchery purposes, is nearly completed at Spiritwood Lake.

The dam crosses the coulee north of the hatchery, and will create a reservoir 8 feet deep from the flow of perennial springs that now drain into the lake. The dam is 90 feet long, 8 feet high. The retaining wall is constructed of crushed rock and cement. A large intake pipe connects the water held by the dam, with the fish hatchery building 300 feet south of the dam. The dam will create a reservoir of pure water 25 rods back from the retaining wall. The dam is strongly built, reinforced with iron rods and rock is being piled up on the inside to strengthen the wall. A spillway has been made to provide for the overflow. The finishing work is now going on and the present favorable weather has permitted rapid progress in the work.

The contractor, Carl Lindberg, had a large rock crusher for getting the crushed rock, and a number of farmers of the vicinity have been employed to haul rock to the dam. Superintendent Ekstrat was present to direct and inspect the work.

Hatching Starts Next Spring.
The purpose of the new dam is to provide plenty of running water for hatching fish eggs for the lakes of the state. Hatching will begin next spring and can be started at any time when the water is of a temperature of 42 degrees. The old reservoir of water, which was located above the hatchery, and was filled from the lakes itself by pumping, proved unsatisfactory, as the water soon became too warm for hatchery purposes. The new reservoir will remedy this defect, and provide a constant running stream into the hatchery pans of the right temperature for all the eggs that will be hatched.

The expense of the new dam will be in the neighborhood of $1,000, which was guaranteed by the Stutsman Sportsmen's club, and parties interested in the lake and in the state hatchery project. The state has invested no money in this necessary equipment for the state hatchery. Parties in Courtenay, Kensal and other towns in the vicinity have indicated a willingness to help pay the cost of this dam, as well as private parties in Jamestown.

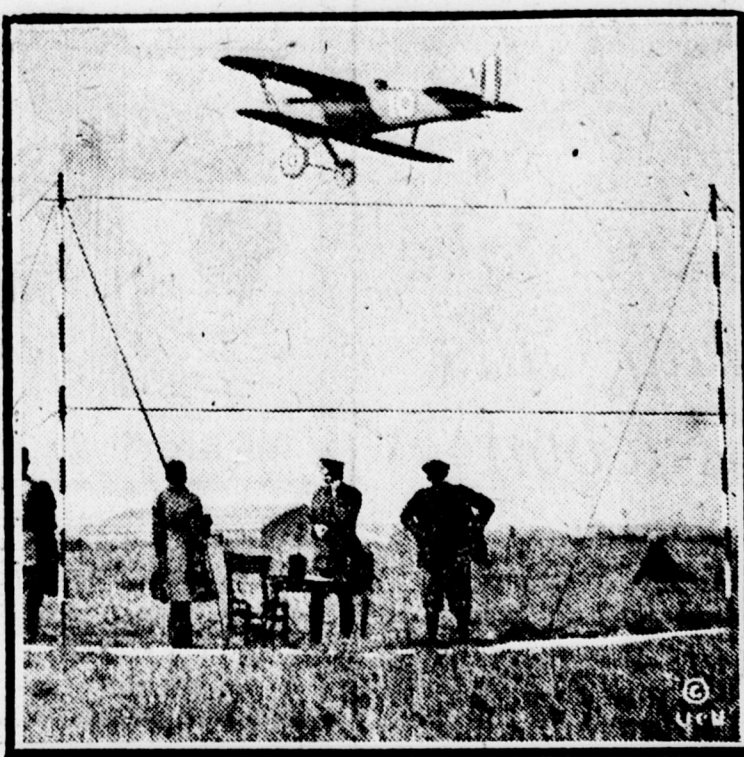

GENEVA NOT CORDIAL TO OFFICIALS

Furns Cold Shoulder to Members of League of Nations

Geneva, Nov. 15.—The higher social circles of Geneva, one of the oldest of the capitals of Europe, find some difficulty in assimilating the League of Nations and its sister organization, the International Labor Bureau. There is little if any social contact between the four hundred of Geneva, most of whom dwell on the side of the Rue de Granges which overlooks the ancient ramparts, and the many hundreds of foreigners who are working for the League. Efforts to build a bridge of contact have not succeeded and the League people remain a world apart. But they have a good time nevertheless. Many of the girl stenographers, weary of their boarding houses, have formed little clubs and pass pleasant evenings. Many of them are marrying the men secretaries. Then there is golf and tennis, which has been put within the reach of all, and the inviting little International club, situated near the Kursaal, is open to both men and women. The golf course founded by the League people has one of the best settings in the world and calls forth expressions of admiration from many an American visitor. It is laid out in the beautiful valley of the Rhone near the city. On one side is the gleaming Jura range of mountains and on the other the glittering French Alps. This is the great League playground. Hiking up the hills and mountains is another pastime for the workers in their hours of freedom, while skating, skiing and bob-sledding have their devotees in the winter season.

CORN PAY CROP
Bottineau, N. D., Nov. 15.—Corn is the best paying crop in Bottineau county, according to C. B. Amoth, county agent. He states it is also a sure crop, only one failure having been experienced in the last 13 years. Arthur Cametaki, farmer of near Gardena, raised six bushels an acre, believed the highest yield yet obtained in the county. Another farmer near Bottineau reported a yield of 50 bushels an acre, while reports of 40 and 45 bushel yields are common, according to Mr. Amoth.

COUNCIL WILL AID SCHOOL BOYS, GIRLS

Cooperate With School Authorities in Care of Out-of-Town Students

GIVE REAL HOMES

The Woman's Community Council has officially come to the assistance of the board of education and school authorities in their efforts to supervise and take care of the 150 boys and girls coming from nearby towns to attend the local high school.

In a recent meeting the Council which represents practically every woman's organization in the city, decided after discussing the question to assist Principal Wm. Bublitz, Supt. H. O. Saxvik, the teachers and other school officials in providing proper homes for the young people and to see that they had advice and counsel from an older person who would take a kindly and personal interest in the boys and girls, many of whom are away from their fathers and mothers for the first time and require a guiding hand to help them meet the problems facing them. Many of them are but from 13 to 15 or 16 years of age.

The women of Bismarck who take these girls into their homes expect to treat them in a motherly manner, to advise and help them as they would their own daughters. They ask the girls and the boys and their parents to co-operate with them in this work.

Bismarck Welcomes Them.
Principal Bublitz made the following statement in discussing students from outside the city:

"One hundred and fifty boys and girls from outside of the city of Bismarck are attending our high school. These young people represent the most enterprising families of the communities from which they come and though the fee which they pay for tuition does not begin to pay for the cost of the instruction they receive, Bismarck welcomes these ambitious young people to her schools and looks upon the expense incurred as an investment in Americanism."

"Regarded from the point of view of an investment, the attendance of non-resident pupils in our schools involves upon us the responsibility of looking after our investment. A great responsibility rests upon the boys and girls themselves and in some cases the responsibility is too great and the results are tragic. Most of these boys and girls are away from home and mother for the first time. They are in a strange world, a world new to them. Add to that the fact that they are in the age of adolescence when profound and revolutionizing changes are going on within them."

Do you grown-ups remember the first time you went to the city, the first unfriendly city? Do you remember how everyone seemed to be looking at you and slyly criticizing your walk or your dress? And when you said goodbye to the folks, you were to say the least, not in the mood to study?

Great Responsibility.
"It is a great responsibility to rear children. How true! But how true. From earliest infancy to near adulthood the species must be trained and mothered for the complexities of life. When the child reaches the school age, parental responsibility is doubled—not lessened. The school-boy is at a critical stage in life. He is asked to live in two worlds as it were; one world consisting of father and mother, home and the other consisting of teachers, books and other things—mostly other things. Upon the parent more than upon any other falls the duty and responsibility of synchronizing and correlating these two worlds in the child mind. Though a responsibility, this function of the parent is a great privilege."

"That privilege is denied to the parents of non-resident pupils in most cases. A mother who sends her child away to the city, spends anxious hours thinking of the possible evil that may befall, before she becomes reconciled to the necessity of the situation. Teachers and others who are entrusted with the supervision of pupils who come from beyond the gates of the city, have a double responsibility resting upon them."

"The people of Bismarck are greatly at fault if any of these visiting pupils fail to achieve what they were sent to do, namely to become good citizens. Give these 'strangers' within our gates a word of good cheer, and friendly advice, both in and out of school. Those who have children of their own, realize that youngsters need direction and advice even when at home. How much more are they in need of direction when away from home. It then becomes incumbent upon all of us and especially upon those who have opened their homes to the out-of-town pupil, to act in 'loco parentum' to the boys and girls entrusted to the tutelage of our city in order to insure the highest returns on our investment in Americanism."

LEGION BUYS HALL.
Beach, Nov. 15.—A deal was consummated here recently, through which the America Legion post here came into the possession of the Reinchner building. The building is nicely situated for post purposes, and plans are being made by the members to improve the building so that it may be used in the future as a community center.

LEADERS IN REVOLT DIE

Athens, Nov. 15.—A court of Eluses has sentenced to death Generals Leon ardiopoulos and Gargalidds and Major Azrambos and Nicolareas, leaders of the recent revolutionary movement. Many others officers of high rank involved in the revolt were sentenced to life imprisonment or for long terms.

DIPHTHERIA SCARE IN GLADSTONE

Gladstone, N. D., Nov. 15.—Three deaths, a girl of 7, another of 16 and another girl of 8 years in three families of this vicinity as the result of diphtheria, have aroused county and state health officials. All schools of this vicinity have been closed, the Shick test given children and both children and adults inoculated against the dread disease. It is estimated there are at present nearly forty cases.

Spoiled Her Good Time

By JOHN PALMER

Miss Krantz had been 15 years in Widdimer's department store, and knew the running of things from A to Z. The moment she set eyes on Miss O'Dell she resolved to protect her.

The girl was pretty as a picture, and her $12 a week seemed a fortune to her. It was the first money she had earned, and it was her first month alone in the city.

Now, Widdimer's was a high-class store, but the girls were badly underpaid. Nobody understood the reason better than Miss Krantz. There were plenty of employees who had branched out of Widdimer's, under Widdimer's protection, to take the primrose path that leads—where does it lead to? Are the moral maxims true as well as right? At least it led out of slavery in the store. And old Widdimer was generous while the mood lasted. And Mary O'Dell was pretty—sure to attract Widdimer's eye when he came in.

Miss Krantz tried to warn her, but Miss O'Dell seemed incapable of understanding. She was so childlike and innocent. Then and there Miss Krantz swore that Miss O'Dell should never come to any harm so long as she could save her.

And Widdimer was a coward, too. It would be easy enough. If she couldn't make Mary understand, she could make Widdimer understand—and meant to. But the best of plans go astray. The morning that Widdimer came in Miss Krantz had been sent to another part of the building.

Widdimer came in, a stout, pompous, timid old man, and went straight to Mary O'Dell as if to a magnet. There was a whispering and furtive giggling among the rest as they saw Widdimer interrogating Mary. They tried to listen; little snatches of the conversation were heard.

"And how long have you been with us, Miss O'Dell?" asked Widdimer.

"Only three weeks, sir."

"Do you live with your people?"

"No, sir; my people live upstate. I have a hall bedroom in a rooming house."

"You haven't a brother, even?"

Old Widdimer was afraid of brothers.

Mary was smiling up at him innocently. "No, sir. I haven't a relative except an old mother."

"If she wasn't so innocent, I'd say the little cat was stringing him," whispered homely Mary Muligan to her friend.

"But you're too young and pretty for that dull sort of a life," said Widdimer very low, but not so low that it failed to reach Miss Muligan's sharp ears. "Don't you like amusement?"

"Oh, yes, sir; but you see I haven't any one to give me any at present," answered Mary, coloring in the divinest manner.

"How would you like to have a little supper with me some night next week?" asked Widdimer, so low that the others only knew what he was saying because they could see how far he had got in his set formula.

"Would it be the right thing to do?" asked Mary.

"My dear, I'm an old man, and a lonely one, and I would feel so brightened up by—"

Widdimer had got just as far as that when sharp-featured Miss Krantz returned from the other part of the building. Like a fury she sailed into the scene.

"Miss O'Dell's my friend, and—under my care, and—she isn't to go out to dinner without a chaperon. Meaning me!" said Miss Krantz, thrusting her sour visage forward, aflame with honest indignation.

Old Widdimer turned a sickly green. "Oh, if that is the case," he stuttered, "I—I guess I made a mistake."

"Well, I guess so, too," said Miss Krantz, and watched his retreating form. It might or might not cost her her job, but she had protected Mary.

"Oh, my dear," she said, "you are so innocent. You didn't understand. That man—oh, that wicked, awful man! I am so thankful that I came up in time—why, what's the matter?"

"Matter, you great clumsy snooping butter! What's the matter with interfering when I'd got the old guy clinched for a good time?" demanded Miss O'Dell, half sobbing.

"Oh, you're the limit, you are. I guess I'll have to write him a mash note now to bring him back—if I can."

Magic Moccasins

When Hiawatha strapped on his magic moccasins he could measure a mile at a single stride. But, at best, he traveled at a snail's pace compared to the speed you can make today.

Glance through your paper and in a few moments you have covered the earth. You jump from New York to San Francisco, Pittsburgh to London, Toledo to Timbuktu. You know what is going on the world over almost as soon as the events occur.

Turn to the advertising columns and you are transported to the grocer's, the clothier's, the music store; you visit the factory of a manufacturer, or talk with the inventor of a new household appliance.

Right in your own armchair, unhurried, unworried and without effort, you can make your choice of good merchandise, check up values and compare prices.

Merchants and manufacturers who put advertisements in this paper must give good value. They know that advertising by increasing the number of their sales, will enable them to lower prices and give you more for your money—and at the same time increase their own income.

The Hospital
Love Affair

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD

As Doctor Kaempfert was about to begin to operate, the face of the girl he was standing beside the injured man's bed rose before his eyes again, vivid and clear.

It was the face of Marjorie Renne. Four years had passed since he had seen her before, and these and an eternity of desolation in his soul. Marjorie and he had loved each other and had been engaged be married.

The quarrel that had separated them had been immaterial; it was not the quarrel that separated them, but pride. Pride on either side, a devastating pride that brooked no softness and endured no explanations.

So they had parted, and Doctor Kaempfert had taken up his work in the hospital again.

In those four years he had become known as the most skillful surgeon in the city in a certain operation for sewing up ruptured arteries, a most difficult process.

For, if by a slip or misjudgment he permitted a clot of blood from the wound to enter a large artery, that would mean instant death.

And he was always the first in the room again. She had known him, her glance had betrayed that, but all her thoughts were with the injured man, her husband, of course.

"You must save him," she had said.

And he had promised.

And it was the saddest thing in the world that could have been called upon to do. For, looking into the white, unconscious face, half hidden beneath the ether cone, he had hated it with a hate that knew no bounds and no limitations. He hated this man who had taken Marjorie from him with mortal hands.

And so, hating him, he began the operation.

The injuries had been severe; the arteries had been clamped; but now came the difficult process, watched with hushed breath by the attending physicians. With sure, deft strokes, Kaempfert laid bare the wound. He took the needle and the catgut from the nurse and began.

How easy to make that trifling error. In so large an artery, which would permit the entrance of a clot! How easy to inflict the tiny wound upon the walls that would produce that clot within them! And then . . . if Marjerie were free he knew he could win her back. Again and again the temptation came to him, but all the while his disciplined fingers were quickly sewing up the walls.

YOU TAKE THAT CAP

He stood back, breathing with a slight gasp, and contemplating the unconscious man for a moment or two, and then, with the aid of his assistant, proceeded to sew up the external wound. And now that was completed, the ether mask was removed, and the unconscious man was already beginning to move.

"Splendid, splendid!" murmured a doctor at the door.

Kämpfner turned away without answering. That was done. He left the operating room. He went into his private room, washed his hands, changed into his street clothes. He must get away from the hospital; he must not see Marjorie again.

A nurse was tapping at the door.

He strode to it and opened it impatiently.

"That lady wishes to see you. To thank you."

"No. Tell her I can't see her. I am a busy man," answered Kämpfner harshly.

"She says she's here, doctor."

It Was a Lot of Money

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

Lying on his bed in the cabin, Hank Winton listened to the whispering voices in the next room. Three days before Hank, wounded in the arm, had ridden up to the cabin. No questions were asked of him—that is not the mountain way. But Hank suspected that his identity was known. And the $5,000 placed upon his head would mean a fortune to this poor, ignorant young couple struggling along with their few mountain sheep on the poor range.

Five thousand dollars! Hank had shot the sheriff, who tried to intercept him after his escape from the penitentiary. The sheriff had recovered, crippled for life. Twenty years faced him.

Five thousand dollars! He had never been worth a quarter of that sum. If he had had $5,000 years before Molly would not have divorced him. Molly and her husband were happy, but very poor; and there was the kid—Hank's own kid, brought up in ignorance that his father was alive.

Hank would have given his liberty to have let the boy have his chance in the world. Molly would see to that if—

The startling thought that flashed through his brain dissolved as he heard that stealthy whispering through the wall again.

He must get up at dawn. And, planning this, he fell asleep from exhaustion.

Next morning his host said, with a shifty glance at him:

"I guess I got to go into town this mornin' to have that sheep medicine sent out. You stay here with the wife, old-timer. Shore, everything will be all right. That wound you got chasin' Hank Winton will soon heal in this high mountain air. You're good for as long as you stay, old-timer."

Hank thanked him briefly. He knew why the man was going into town. It was the result of his talk with his wife the night before. They meant to do the right thing, but $5,000—

And there was a baby coming. Five thousand dollars. Why, he, Hank, would have sold his best friend to give $5,000 to Tom!

Again that startling thought flashed through his mind.

He watched the host ride off. The woman went into the kitchen and made a pretense of peeling potatoes. Hank watched her through the open door. She was crying.

Suddenly she turned and came to him. "You saddle the pinto and ride away before my man gets back," she said.

Hank smiled. It was a winsome smile; the desperado was still a young man; he had not lost all his boyishness.

"I reckon you know,"

"Shore, we both know, and I reckon you know why my man's rid into town. There's time to get away yet. That pinto of yours can go fast. Ef it wasn't for—for the baby." She put her hand to her throat. "But I just can't do it now," she said. "You take the pinto. He'll understand."

"I—I got a kid of my own," said Hank.

She looked at him with slow understanding. "That shore is tough," she said.

"And I was thinkin', what's the sense of goin' on bein' an outlaw when I'm bound to get caught sooner or later? If I was to take my medicine I guess I'd be out in thirteen years or so, with a trade, and—there's that kid of mine. Twenty-five hundred would just about set him right with the world. And I guess it would just about set you right."

"You—you mean?"

"Shore, that's what I mean. Twenty-five hundred's a mighty big lot of money and . . . I guess I could trust you."

"You saddle that pinto!" she flashed out.

"Well, I guess not," said Hank. "Besides, I ain't well enough to ride yet."

Two hours later the galloping horsemen converged about the shack. Hank was ridden down and covered.

"Well, I guess we got you to rights, Hank," remarked the deputy.

"Guess so," Hank answered.

The man who had sold him came up to the little group. "Satisfied that's him?" he asked.

"Shore, that's him," they answered curtly. They moved away from him. Hank laughed.

"That's all right, old-timer," he said. "Don't hold it against him. I was aimin' to surrender, and we thought we might as well divide up that there reward between us. Twenty-five hundred each shore is a lot of money."

GERMAN BRANDS PAPER MONEY PICTURING

GOETHE A SACRILEGE
Berlin, Nov. 15.—Dr. Heuer director of the Frankfurt Goethe Museum, says it is sacrilege to print Goethe's picture on the almost valueless paper money. Frankfurt recently issued a two-million mark note bearing the famous German poet's portrait, and similar money has been issued by other German cities.

When Goethe was prime minister of the little dukedom of Saxe-Weimar he strongly opposed the issuance of paper money and used to say, "Paper money swallows at first the silver and then itself." In "Faust" Goethe made Mephistopheles the creator of sham paper money, thus showing the dramatist's contempt for that form of circulating medium.

MANY 'MAYORS' HOLD SWAY IN NEW YORK CITY

Mayor Hylan Is Only Official Mayor While Many Exist in Byways

FAME IS REFLECTED
City Magistrates, Judges, Bankers, and Wealthy Friends of Mayor

New York, Nov. 15.—To the stranger and the uninitiated, New York, the metropolis, has only one mayor, John F. Hylan, but to those intimately acquainted with the highways and byways there are many more who, notwithstanding the informality of their choice, rule and hold title fully as strongly as the city's chief executive. There exists almost every kind of title on the East Side from mayor down to "clerk," and from "duke" to the most fledgling of princelings.

Not only do the "mayors" hold title in themselves, but the personality of some of these quasi rulers has been so strong that the fame and the glamor surrounding their names have been transmitted to lineal descendants. So, for instance, did Edwin Steingut, "mayor of Second operation. The injuries had been severe; the arteries had been clamped; but now came the difficult process, watched with hushed breath by the attending physicians. With sure, deft strokes, Kaempfert laid bare the wound. He took the needle and the catgut from the nurse and began.

How easy to make that trifling error. In a large artery, which would permit the entrance of a clot! How easy to inflict the tiny wound upon the walls that would produce that clot within them! And then . . . if Marjorie were free he knew he could win her back. Again and again the temptation came to him, but all the while his disciplined fingers were quickly sewing up the walls.

And now it was done, and there was no possibility of yielding to that temptation. He stood back, breathing a deep sigh of relief, contemplating the unconscious man for a moment or two, and then, with the aid of his assistant, proceeded to sew up the external wound. And now that was completed, the ether mask was removed, and the unconscious man was already beginning to move.

"Splendid, splendid!" murmured a doctor at his side.

Kaempfert turned away without answering. That was done. He left the operating room. He went into his private room, washed his hands, changed into his street clothes. He must get away from the hospital; he must not see Marjorie again.

The nurse was tapping at the door. He strode to it and opened it impatiently.

"That lady wishes to see you, to thank you."

"No, tell her I can't see her. I am a busy man," answered Kaempfert harshly.

"She's outside; she's here, doctor."

The nurse stepped back, and Doctor Kaempfert saw Marjorie standing upon the threshold.

"He went to her. 'I think he's all right. You must excuse me,' he began, confusedly.

"Arthur!" The appeal in her eyes was breaking down his resisting power. He put out one hand in futile protest.

"No, no—I don't want to see you, Marjorie," he said. "Your husband is all right now. He will make a quick recovery and be home in a few days."

"My husband?"

Kaempfert stared at her.

"Arthur, he—Oh, he isn't my husband! He's my chum, Adolphe Benson's husband. I—I'm married. Did you think I was Arthur? I—I can't see you because I've already loved you."

She was sobbing to the verge.

And neither heard the faintest cough of the nurse as she turned away.

LLOYD GEORGE LETS ASQUITH LEAD BATTLE

Will Assume Second Place in Liberal Fight for the Time Being

London, Nov. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—The question whether Herbert Asquith or David Lloyd George will assume the leadership of the reunited liberal party which has been exciting the greatest interest in view of the deep-rooted political animosity between these two statesmen appeared to have been settled quietly at their peace meeting on Tuesday. No official announcement has been forthcoming from Liberal headquarters. In fact this issue has been avoided by Liberal politicians and the Liberal press but political experts in a position to know the facts say the situation is this:

Mr. Lloyd George has agreed to work with and under Mr. Asquith in view of the latter's position as the older statesman and leader of the third strongest party in the house as that body is constituted at present, the labor party being the second and the Lloyd George party ranking fourth.

Should the liberals be successful in the election Mr. Asquith will be asked to form a cabinet in which Mr. Lloyd George will be second in command.

But Mr. Asquith, having thus preserved his dignity, would retire from the premiership upon which Mr. Lloyd George would assume the leadership of the liberals and assume again his old role of prime minister.

HOG CHOLERA INCREASING

Washington, Nov. 15.—Hog cholera is becoming more prevalent this fall than in any year since the decline of the last extensive outbreak which reached its height in 1914, the Department of Agriculture, announced today. Reports show the disease has appeared recently in communities which had been free from it for 25 years. In many localities it gained considerable headway before hog raisers realized the nature of the trouble.

Unless hog owners and veterinary practitioners are on the alert and act promptly, the department experts declare, the losses will be heavy this fall.

Quality Cars at Quantity Price, Chevrolet Slogan

"Quality Cars at Quantity Prices" has been the slogan of the Chevrolet for many months. And it is not merely a slogan, but a fact, as any of the more than a million owners will testify. Now, quality has been increased per dollar of cost through the recent price reduction.

Never before in the history of the automobile business has so much automobile value been offered per dollar of price.

Those of the modest purses, who must give cost first consideration, are bound to select Chevrolet, not only because the purchase price is so near that of the lowest priced car in the market, but also because now, more than ever before, Chevrolet, throughout the life of the car, averages the lowest cost per mile in transportation—price, carrying charges and upkeep considered.

Many Quality Features

Chevrolet has style enough for the well-to-do.

Chevrolet has modern equipment.

Chevrolet has plenty of room.

Chevrolet retains its shape and good appearance.

Chevrolet has very low purchase prices.

Chevrolet averages lowest operating costs.

Chevrolet service is rapidly increasing in facilities and declining in cost.

Chevrolet has low insurance rating.

These are all factors which are influencing the purchase of more and more Chevrolets.

PRESS CHARGE WALTON TOOK KU KLUX OATH

Health Commissioner Said To Have Testified That He Subscribed To It

Oklahoma City, Nov. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Further evidence tending to show that Governor J. C. Walton was a member of the Ku Klux Klan at the time he waged his spectacular fight against the organization because of its alleged mob activities is in the hands of a legislative committee which is conducting an investigation with a possible view toward supplementing the impeachment charges. The evidence was made public here last night in the form of testimony given by Dr. A. E. Davenport, state health commissioner, and a member of the Klan. He was quoted as having said he arranged the meeting with the Governor for the ceremony, was present when a Klan official administered the oath and collected the initiation fee from him and filled out the membership card for the Governor during the proceedings at his direction.

The health commissioner testified in support of Dr. W. T. Killy, former cyclops of the Muskogee Klan, who told the committee he swore the Governor in and was paid the regulation entrance fee.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE HELD IN POLITICS

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The Anti-Saloon League of New York is a political party and as such should be compelled to file with the Secretary of State a statement of receipts and expenditures in political campaigns. In reaching this decision today the appellate decision of the supreme court sustained the ruling handed down by Supreme Court Justice Stanley on March 31 last.
